

Anti-coalition Coalition Opposes Greek Slate

• ASSOCIATED STUDENTS FOR BETTER GOVERNMENT (SBG) issued a challenge this week to the big-fraternity-coalition "which perennially dominates student government and student activities." The new student organization intends to put up a slate of candidates for Student Council offices in next week's election.

SBG is a student organization which has been working since September, 1964, "to formulate a program for improving student government and to select diligent and well-qualified candidates to institute that program."

"We feel that the purpose of the Student Council is more than just administering Joe College activities like Homecoming. With a well planned program and dedicated individuals, we intend to do much more," stated Ardavazt Honanyan, a member of SBG.

SBG's major criticism of the present Student Council centers around the claim that it is ineffective and unrepresentative. It maintains that in spite of Victor Clark's efforts the Student Council has no substantial accomplishments to its credit, pointing out that even "the long overdue and much needed Constitutional reform is still far from completion."

SBG also charges that some Student Council members tend to represent their coalition and not the voters outside the big-fraternity-coalition who actually elected them.

Because of the vast changes in the caliber of students of the University, members of SBG maintain that the smaller fraternities, smaller sororities, and the independents will no longer tolerate exclusion from student government and will no longer accept the denial of a campus life.

In addition, SBG hopes to encourage more students to participate in the upcoming election both as voters and as candidates. In the past elections only about 40 per cent of the students have voted. SBG feels that by offering a meaningful choice and realistic platform it can induce more students to campaign and to vote.

GWU Debaters Capture Midwest Forensic Meet

• VARSITY DEBATERS Dion Meek and Hugh Hecllo won the Ohio State University Debate Tournament, held January 28-30. Forty-five colleges and universities sent a total of 64 teams to compete in the Ohio meet which is considered the best in the Midwest.

The GW team swept through five preliminary rounds defeating the University of Illinois, Capital College, John Carroll, Ohio Wesleyan, and Kent State. In the first two elimination rounds, GW knocked out Dartmouth and Carson Newman. Other schools eliminated included Oklahoma, the University of Chicago, Pittsburgh, Kentucky and Wisconsin. The semifinal round pitted Hecllo and Meek against the Wayne State team which a month before had eliminated a GW team in the final round at Wake Forest. This time the tables were turned as the judges agreed with GW's affirmative position.

The tournament championship was decided in a debate which several judges called one of the best they had heard. Hecllo and Meek faced the University of Minnesota, the only remaining undefeated team in the tournament. Before an audience of two hundred, the argument was narrowly decided in GW's favor.

This victory in the Midwest firmly establishes the University as a nationally prominent debate power, according to Hecllo.

Is it over, or just beginning?

Inaugural Concert Stars Cosby

• BILL COSBY, Shep and the Limelights, Little Royal and the Swingmasters, and the new Student Council officers will be featured at the Inaugural Concert, Friday, Feb. 12, at 8 pm in Lisner Auditorium.

Cosby, the concert headliner, is a nationally known comedian. This native of Philadelphia has recently performed at the Bitter End in New York, the Hungry i in San Francisco, and the Shadows in Washington.

He has also appeared on television on the Ed Sullivan, Jack Paar, and Tonight shows and is scheduled for a featured role in a comedy program during the 1965-66 season.

He has recorded two LP's, "Bill Cosby is a Very Funny Fellow . . . right" and "I Started Out as a Child."

Targets for Cosby's wit range from Noah building his ark to Clark Kent explaining to a policeman why he is using a phone booth to change into his Superman garb.

Shep and the Limelights, and Little Royal and the Swingmasters, two rock 'n roll groups, will provide music at the Concert.

During the intermission Student Council election results will be announced, and Order of Scarlet will tap and initiate new members.

Duke Dressner, chairman of the Inaugural Concert Committee, said the Committee believes this year's Concert will be a change from the folk concerts which have dominated the University programs for too long.

Tickets for the Concert are now on sale at the Student Union ticket office for $3. Students who wish to use their Campus Combos to purchase tickets must pick them up by 3 pm Friday, Feb. 12, as these will not be available at the door.

Liaison Committee Hears Plea for More Counseling

• PLANS FOR expanding counseling services for students, the completion of the library test file, and the expansion of bookstore business hours until 7:30 pm were discussed at the final fall semester meeting of the Faculty-Student Liaison Committee.

At the meeting Dr. Weisberg, of the department of psychiatry, said that there was a "strong reaction" from the Medical School in favor of extending psychological guidance. In the Liaison Committee report on student relations presented to the Senate on Dec. 11, it was stated that "the faculty is frequently confronted with students disturbed by personal problems and that there is an increasing need for psychiatric counseling services to students."

A pilot project, perhaps of two-year duration, was envisioned by Dr. Weisberg. At the end of the project the effectiveness of the expanded guidance program could be evaluated.

Also, the Student Liaison Committee sent 85 questionnaires to club presidents before Christmas. Thus far 25 presidents have responded to the survey on the relationship between faculty advisors and student organizations.

The majority of the responses showed the presidents to be "very pleased" with the work of their advisors. However, Sandy Wishner, chairman of the Student Liaison Committee, pointed out that more questionnaires must be returned before any results can be compiled.

According to Dr. Weisberg, the survey can be terminated after a few personal interviews which will be held with club presidents to assure the validity of the findings, if the responses continue to be positive.

Further action by the Committee has resulted in the extension of the bookstore hours from 7 to 7:30 pm for the benefit of night students.

Also the test file containing past examinations has been completed and will be put in the library for student use.

$1.2 Million Law Library Slated for 1966

• PLANS FOR construction of a new law library adjoining Stockton Hall were announced last week by Dr. Newell W. Ellison, chairman of the University Board of Trustees.

Groundbreaking for the new building is slated for October 12—the hundredth anniversary of the founding of the Law School. Completion of the project is scheduled for late 1966.

Cost estimate for the proposed library, a five-story structure with open stack facilities for 250,000 volumes, is $1.2 million. Dr. Charles B. Nutting, administrator of the University's National Law Center, announced that a fund-drive has been initiated to raise money for the building through "various special sources" such as organizations and alumni interested in promoting the project.

Both Dr. Nutting and Dr. Ellison stressed that the law library is not "just another GW pipe-dream." Approximately $185,000, collected several years ago in a fund-raising campaign for a new Law Center, is already on hand to help finance the project.

"I have every confidence," Dr. Nutting said, "that we will be able to raise the additional funds and proceed with the construction on schedule."

Need for the new law library was emphasized by Dr. Robert Kramer, dean of the Law School.

Increased enrollment in the University Law School has placed it among the six largest in the nation, with total enrollment currently set at 1,200 students. The new law library, Dean Kramer said, is "a necessity for the continuation of the School as an effective center for education in the law."

The new facility, expected to meet the University's needs for the next ten years, will replace the present law library located on the fourth floor and part of the third floor of Stockton Hall. This will allow the fourth floor to be converted into research areas and faculty offices and will provide space on the third floor for additional classrooms.

Plans for the new library include study cubicles and tables designed to accommodate 414 students at a time. Construction of the library is expected to displace only one building—a women's locker room located on 20th Street next to the College of General Studies.

Composer Offers Comments About His Symphony

by Margaret Singleton and Joshua Gedrich

• USHERING AT LISNER proved to be an unusually rewarding job Jan. 14, when the National Symphony performed "Symphony in Two Movements" by Lester Trimble, at the auditorium.

Howard Mitchell conducted the performance, part of the University concert series, which was attended by composer Trimble himself, who looked more like a successful businessman than a composer.

After hearing "Symphony in Two Movements," it was our good fortune to corner Trimble in the well of the left aisle and satisfy our curiosity as to what a composer thinks about while listening to his work being presented. Trimble said he was comparing the three performances of the Washington premiere of his music. He commented that Thursday's presentation was the best of the series, in his opinion.

In describing his work, he said it was intended to be abstractly thematic, not pictorial or descriptive. However, if it conjured up pretty pictures for individuals he was happy.

The audience was favorably impressed by the symphony, a reaction not evident in some of the experimental pieces conducted by Mitchell earlier in the season, which we also attended.

Both of us were thrilled with the opportunity to talk to composer Trimble and consider it one of the high points of our ushering job at Lisner.

"She may be a perfectly nice girl and all that, but really, someone should tell her that David's Village Shop has loads and loads of VILLAGER clothes. It would make all the difference, you know."

Law Fund Commemorates Dulles

• FORMER PRESIDENT Dwight D. Eisenhower has accepted the honorary chairmanship of the John Foster Dulles Fund for International Legal Studies recently established at the University's Law School.

Newell W. Ellison, chairman of the University's Board of Trustees, made official announcement for the Board at a press conference on Jan. 25.

John Foster Dulles as a Student

He gave as the purposes of the program, which will be primarily for graduate law students:

- 1) To provide physical facilities for programs in research and study in international law; 2) To maintain and expand the international law library; 3) To provide scholarships and fellowships; 4) To provide stipends for visiting faculty members and guest specialists; and, 5) To prepare and publish articles, books, and treatises on the subject.

A 23-man advisory committee, headed by Former President Eisenhower, has been established to advise the president of the University in the general planning of the Dulles Program and in the use of contributions to the Dulles Fund for International Legal Studies.

Eisenhower said it was his "personal conviction that the Nation's capital city should have a facility specializing deeply in international law; it could not fail to be useful to the great number of individuals who are concerned with this subject."

"Secretary Dulles was my friend and trusted advisor for six years of my administration," he continued. "We shared a common dedication to the preservation and promotion of world peace through law. Since the National Law Center is concerned with the same cause, and since its program offers a significant contribution toward that end, it is highly fitting that the George Washington University recognize him in this way, not only as an alumnus but as a leader to whom the world owes so much."

Members of the Dulles Fund Advisory Committee include Wiley Buchanan, former chief of protocol and University Trustee; George A. Butler, senior partner, Butler, Binion, Rice and Cook and University trustee; Allen Dulles, former head of the CIA, brother of John Foster Dulles and University alumnus; Charles C. Glover, Jr., chairman, Executive Committee, Riggs National Bank and University trustee; Christian A. Herter, former secretary of state; Robert Murphy, former under-secretary of state; J. Lee Rankin, former solicitor general of the U.S. and executive secretary of the Warren Commission; Charles S. Rhyne, Jr., University trustee; and James O. Wright, president, Federal-Mogul-Bower Bearings, Inc., and University trustee.

Engineering School Library Offers Students Open Stacks

• FOUR THOUSAND math, science and technical books were recently acquired by the engineering library from the main University library.

The stacks are open to all University students, but only faculty members may check out books.

The transferral brings about a greater concentration of the technical books in one building, an arrangement which promises to be far more convenient for engineering students. Some of these books, however, are also used by liberal arts majors, who now must go to two separate libraries for their research.

The engineering library, located at Tompkins N-5, is open 9 am-5 pm Mon. through Fri., and 9 am-1 pm on Saturdays. The weekend hours are limited in comparison to the main library, which is open 9 am-5 pm on Saturdays and 2-6 pm on Sundays.

The reason for this, states Mason, is the lack of student help available to the library.

On Campus

with Max Shulman

(By the author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!", "Dobie Gillis," etc.)

ONCE MORE UNTO THE BREACH

Today I begin my eleventh year of writing this column in your campus newspaper.

I wasn't sure I'd be coming back this year. After a decade of doing this column, I had retreated to my country seat, tired but happy, to enjoy a nice long rest. But last night as I sat on my verandah, peaceful and serene, humming the largo from A Long Day's Night and worming my dog, a stranger suddenly appeared before me.

He was a tall, clean-limbed man, crinkly-eyed and crooked-grinned, stalwart and virile. "How do you do," he said. "My name is Stalwart Virile and I am with the Personna Stainless Steel Razor Blade people."

"Enchanted," I said. "Take off your homburg and sit down." I clapped my hands sharply. "Norman!" I called. "Another chair for Mr. Virile!"

"Another chair for Mr. Virile!"

Obediently my dog trotted away and returned directly with a fanback chair of Malayan rattan. He is the smartest dog in our block.

"I suppose you're wondering why I am here," said Mr. Virile, seating himself.

"Well, sir," I replied, my old eyes twinkling roguishly, "I'll wager you didn't come to read my meter."

You can imagine how we howled at that one!

"That's a doozy!" cried Mr. Virile, finally catching his breath.

"I must remember to tell it to Alice when I get home."

"Your wife?" I said.

"My father," he said.

"Oh," I said.

"But enough of wit and humor," he said. "Let us get down to business. How would you like to write a campus column for Personna Stainless Steel Razor Blades?"

"For money?" I said.

"Yes," he said.

"My hand, sir," I said and clasped his. Warmly he returned the pressure, and soft smiles played upon our lips, and our eyes were moist with the hint of tears, and we were silent, not trusting ourselves to speak.

"What will you write about in your campus column?" asked Mr. Virile when he was able to talk again.

"I will take up the burning issues that vex the American undergraduate!" I cried, bounding to my feet. "I will explore, without fear or favor, such explosive questions as 'Are roommates sanitary?' and 'Should proctors be given a saliva test?' and 'Should capital punishment for pledges be abolished?' and 'Can a student of 19 find happiness with an economics professor of 80?'"

"And will you also say a pleasant word from time to time about Personna Stainless Steel Razor Blades?" asked Mr. Virile.

"Sir," I said simply, "what other kind of word except pleasant could I possibly say about Personna Blades, which give me more luxury shaves than Beep-Beep or any other blade I might name?"

"Another of my products is Burma Shave," said Mr. Virile. "Can you find it in your heart to mention Burma Shave occasionally?"

"But of course!" I declared. "For is not Burma Shave the whisker-wiltingest lather in the land?"

"Yes," he admitted.

And then he shook my hand again and smiled bravely and was gone—a tall silhouette moving erectly into the setting sun.

"Farewell, good tonsorialist!" I cried after him. "Aloha!"

And turned with a will to my typewriter.

Editorials

Alliance for Profit . . .

• CAMPUS COALITION POLITICS is back again, and the unctuous arrangers of convenient bargains are as glib and as smug as ever. Fraternity men talk openly of coalitions and deals which are blatantly arranged to insure as far as possible a pre-determined division of the plums of office among the houses participating and the associated sororities.

They talk very openly, indeed. In December, a member of Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity volunteered the unsolicited information that a coalition headed by AEPi would wholeheartedly support one of the HATCHET editors if the editor should decide to run for office. Last Sunday a member of the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity made similar overtones, speaking for a different coalition—an anti-coalition coalition composed of Phi Sigma Kappa, some smaller fraternities, and the independents—ironically claiming to present a united front against the evils of coalition politics.

Yet the very same individuals who chummily discuss coalition tactics with HATCHET editors and reporters in private, absolutely deny the existence of fraternity coalitions when it comes to public information.

Honesty is a meaningless word around here. Probably, it is too simple and old-fashioned a concept for sophisticated, sharp college students. Everybody knows that only a fool would work himself to death creating a creditable public record of solid achievements in various offices and activities, when it is much easier to belong to the right group and exercise the right kind of pull within your group. The emphasis is on personal contacts rather than competence. Personality supersedes performance as the standard to determine who shall be entrusted with the responsibilities of governance.

Unfortunately, this self-seeking political maneuvering based on organizational prestige rather than on the merit of the candidates has long-run effects far beyond the relatively petty affairs that lie within the jurisdiction of the Student Council.

The real crying shame is that students who pursue prestige at the expense of principles, do not do so just while they are on campus. The campus political arena is merely a training ground where we prepare to face the conflicts and issues of the real world where the stakes are higher but the game is the same.

These petty, selfish mediocrats graduate and go out into the greater world, where they find ways of working together for personal gains and contribute to a political system where log-rolling and patronage are valued above the public welfare.

Longer Cram Break . . .

• HAGGARD SURVIVORS will agree with us that the University placed an even greater than usual burden on many students by beginning the final examination period on Friday, Jan. 15, just 36 hours after the end of classes Wednesday. This policy was necessitated by the fact that the Inauguration day holiday fell in the middle of final exam week. Still, it seems that the Administration could have conceived a less burdensome way to solve this problem.

Even in non-presidential years students are given only four days to prepare for examinations. This time is not sufficient, and it only aggravates an ever-present problem when this period is cut in half once every four years. It is desirable to have at least a week between classes and examinations. Of course, the inevitability that some students will use the time to fly down to Florida and get a suntan makes it less desirable.

Nevertheless, a complete readjustment of the official calendar for the entire year has been needed for a long time. Students at numerous colleges and universities outside the Washington metropolitan area enjoy both longer vacations and longer cram breaks.

Members of the Administration always give two reasons explaining the utter necessity of our present schedule. First, they say that the University would lose accreditation if the number of hours of class attendance were reduced. Strange, but those Big Ten and Ivy League schools which are generous with students' time, have always managed somehow to maintain their accreditation.

A second excuse, is that the University is bound to observe the same schedule as the other schools in the Consortium of local universities. Well, why must George Washington be a meek follower in the Consortium plan? Why not take the lead in proposing and initiating a schedule which would be welcomed by students of all five universities?

Letters to the Editors

Criticizes . . .

To the Editors:

• REFERRING TO A LETTER submitted to the HATCHET by Robin Kaye in the January 12 issue, I would like to move one step further in criticizing the present Student Council organization at GW from a commuter's point of view.

As a second semester sophomore, I have found little on this campus to make me feel that I was an integral part of it. There are too few activities and more than that, too little concern on the part of the Student Council for the welfare of the commuters who make up 3/5 of the school population!

"Student apathy" is always being attacked for lack of school spirit. First of all, I'd say there is little school spirit to begin with. Secondly, all existing school spirit, if any, is stirred up by the fraternities and sororities at their members' expense.

Why does everything have to be centered around the Greeks at GW? The commuters pay just as much for the privilege of attending GW as the Greeks do—even more when the transportation costs are added. Is it fair to exclude the bulk of commuters from the greater part of the few social activities we have on campus, just because we live a few miles away? I should hope not.

The Student Council elections are coming up again. Why should the commuters even bother to vote? There is nothing to choose from but an all-Greek slate promising nothing more than a repetition of the past failures of the Student Council to provide for the welfare of the majority.

Vic Clark, who is the new Constitution? Are the Greeks purposely trying to stifle all future hope for the commuters and dorm students to one day control their own Student Government? Hugh Hecla's letter last issue reiterates this fear to its fullest extent.

Unless there is a quick decision of commuters and dorm students to present a united stand against the Greek government our hopes for more inter-campus social and cultural activities as well as better student government will be lost for another year.

Frustrating . . .

To the Editors:

• INTERESTED STUDENTS of George Washington arriving fresh from high school activities are anxious to apply their knowledge and ability to the making of a better University. But their efforts are constantly frustrated by the limited bounds in which an "unattached" student may operate.

Certainly the most disheartening fact is the inability of independents and "little Greeks" to break into the winning slate of the Student Council. Coalition-picked and coalition-organized, fraternity selects float into office—often over the qualified, conscientious and the dedicated.

It is true that certain candidates of the coalition are able workers, but why should the decision be left up to the Big Four? Why shouldn't all candidates stand upon their own qualifications and character instead of Tryouts . . .

• THE UNIVERSITY PLAYERS will hold open tryouts for the Brendan Behan comedy, "The Hostage," Feb. 8 and 9. The hours on Feb. 8 will be 2-4 pm and 7-9 pm. On Feb. 9, tryouts will be held only from 2-4:30 pm. These tryouts are open to anyone in the University, and will be held in Lisner Auditorium.

There are also openings for backstage personnel to handle lighting, scenery construction, and management. Those interested may see Edward Ferrero, managing director of University drama, in his office in Lisner Auditorium any afternoon Monday through Friday between 1 and 4:30 pm.

upon coalition? It's time that the qualified Little Man On Campus was able to show his stuff and if it is better than the BMOG, then defeat the slate. It's all a matter of ability.

When will such a change take place? It's definitely needed now. Until students are able to make a real choice, fun will continue to be put above scholarship, and the voices of the fraternity cheer will continue to drown out the quiet vocalization of The Buff and The Blue.

Distressing . . .

To the Editors:

• THE "VERY NEGATIVE" reaction of the chairman of the Faculty-Student Relations Council to Vic Clark's speech before the Faculty Senate on January 8 is hardly a surprising one. Mrs. Jakobson's statements and the fact that the HATCHET used them to bludgeon Mr. Clark's ideas are to be expected from a University with a migraine of lack of awareness of underlying problems and contradictions plaguing the university pattern in America.

If Mrs. Jakobson had availed herself of the opportunity to "open up the avenues of communication" between students and faculty (not to mention administration) by attending the Paul Goodman lecture at Woodhull a few weeks ago, she would have listened to the same ideas held by Mr. Clark expressed by one of America's most noted authors. Also, I would like to see evidence of Mrs. Jakobson's statement that GW students are becoming "more aware of problems" in the state of the world."

Roscoe Drummond Assesses Republicans, Dirksen, Taft

• ROSCOE DRUMMOND, Washington columnist for the New York Herald Tribune Syndicate since 1955, spoke to the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity at the University Sunday afternoon.

Drummond, who began as a reporter for The Christian Science Monitor, acted at various times as its chief editorial writer, its general news editor, and the chief of its Washington news bureau until he became chief of the Herald Tribune's Washington Bureau in 1953. He is a Sigma Phi Epsilon alumnus from Syracuse University.

Assessing the Republican loss in the 1964 elections, he said that the blame lies with the party and not necessarily with the candidate. Goldwater, he said, did act true to his conservative ideal during the campaign, but the party leadership had earlier defaulted in its responsibility, resulting in the Senator's nomination.

Looking to the future of the Republican party, Drummond foresaw the emergence of Senator Dirksen as its temporary leader, who he said represents the center of Republicanism. Senator Dirksen, he noted, sets aside the party on critical issues and becomes the spokesman for the nation's general welfare. He predicted the rise of Charles Percy, Robert Taft, Jr., and John Lindsay, and the continuance of George Romney as party leaders. Drummond expressed his dissatisfaction with presidential Forms are available in the Office of Student Financial Aid, Bldg. T, 2110 G St.

If Mrs. Jakobson still refuses to face the fact that student government at GW is hamstringing by a plethora of "Joe College" activities, a trend Mr. Clark has continually tried to alter, then I suggest she attend a Council meeting one Wednesday evening.

And should anyone then wonder why this is so, look only as far as the organization and administration of this institution whose goals are finance, conformity and prestige, the results of which can only be the attainment of grades for grades' sake, inaction for security's sake, and unawareness for expediency's sake.

Regarding the manner with which Mr. Clark addresses the job of Student Council president which Mrs. Jakobson finds so distressing, I wonder how many other students would pay a residence fee, cancel all courses, do part of the work of every other member on the Council and handle more business than any other past president in the past four years as Mr. Clark has done?

If there is any doubt as to the outstanding job he has done in the face of every obstacle, one needs only to check the record of minutes for preceding years and compare.

Arena Theater Offers Billy Budd

by Carol Baldwin

• IF YOU'RE LOOKING for enjoyable evening entertainment some night in the next two weeks, go to see Billy Budd at the Arena stage, Washington's theater in the round.

The plot follows that of the book as Master-at-Arms Claggart, personification of evil, and Billy Budd, symbol of goodness, inevitably destroy each other and Captain Vere must make judgment on Billy according to the laws of man.

What could have been dull set speeches or moralizing too obvious for modern taste are well performed by excellent actors, for symbolism is never allowed to obscure characterization.

The all-male cast, headed by a newcomer to the Arena, Tom Ligon, gives convincing portrayals of the crew of a British warship in 1797. A fine group of supporting actors adds spice with Robert Prosky especially delightful as O'Daniel.

Director Edwin Sherwin kept his company at a brisk seaworthy pace, using the entire theater as a stage. Actors scramble up the aisle as up the rigging which brings the audience into the ship and into the plot.

Even a landlubber would enjoy the fine acting and magnificent sets. There is no sea sickness aboard the Indomitable at the Arena!

Spring Recess . . .

• THE DATES OF the University Spring Recess have been changed from March 20 through 30 to April 14 through 20, 1965, in order to coordinate the University calendar with the arrangements of the other members of the Graduate Consortium.

Ten Selected For Phi Beta Kappa

• TEN STUDENTS, four men and six women, will receive the Phi Beta Kappa key at an initiation ceremony, Saturday, Feb. 6, at 11:30 in the Board of Trustees Room of the Library.

Patrick F. Gallagher, assistant professor of sociology and anthropology, will speak at a 12:30 luncheon following the initiation on, "Oral and Written Cultural Traditions: Primitive Mentality Reconsidered." The luncheon will be served at the Faculty Club.

Roger D. Adelson, a 1964 BA graduate, is currently a Danforth Fellow at Washington University in St. Louis. A history major, he is a member of the American Historical Association and has a 3.42 QPI.

Devin Bent is a senior majoring in political science. He works 37½ hours a week as a copy boy for The Washington Post. He is a National Merit Scholar and a member of the Russian club, with a 3.56.

Daughter of Rep. Joel T. Broyhill (R., Va.), Nancy Broyhill is a senior majoring in public affairs. She is treasurer of Mortar Board, president of Kappa Kappa Gamma, secretary of the Young Republicans, and a member of Delphi, sorority women's service honorary, and has a 3.77.

Holder of the Charles Clinton Swisher scholarship in history, Janet Duvall graduated with a BA in 1964. A member of the Wesley foundation and Alpha Theta Nu, she was a history major, with a 3.75.

Currently a graduate assistant at the University of Maryland, Deborah Charnley Fort received her BA from the University in 1964 with a major in American Thought and Civilization. She had a 3.66 QPI.

Jill Warren Landsberg was president of Mortar Board, president of Kappa Kappa Gamma, chairman of the Student Planning Commission, a member of Big Sis, a member of Tassels, the tennis team, and the Committee on Student Life. A political science major at the University, she is now a student at Yale University Graduate School. Her QPI was 3.40.

Psychology major Nathaniel G. Mullener is prose editor of POTOMAC and a participant in the National Science Foundation undergraduate education in psychology research. He has an Emma K Carr scholarship and is a member of Psi Chi, national psychology honor society. He has a 3.72 QPI.

A member of Tassels and the Newman Club, Arlene Rita O'Connor received a BA with a major in economics from the University in 1964. She held a Eugene and Agnes E. Myer Scholarship and has a 3.45 QPI.

Upon graduation Floyd A. Riggs plans to enter the foreign service. He holds a University scholarship in international affairs and is a member of Delta Phi Epsilon, foreign service professional fraternity at the University. He works part time at the Department of Interior, and maintains a 3.80 QPI.

Now working for her MA at Johns Hopkins University, Karen Judy Scott graduated in 1964 with a major in history. She won the Panhellenic Pledge Scholarship Prize in 1962 and held the Charles Clinton Swisher Scholarship, 1963-64. She was a member of Alpha Theta Nu, the Panhellenic Council, and Big Sis, and was treasurer of Zeta Tau Alpha. Her QPI was 3.83.

Going Out Georgetown Discotheques Add High Prices to Dancing and Atmosphere

by Vicki Ronan

• IF A DISCOTHEQUE is just records, then why isn't Brownley's considered one? If it's only dancing, why not call the Keg or the Rocket Room a disco?

The answer of course is atmosphere. This very fact may be the reason why Georgetown dominates the discotheque scene. Atmosphere is that certain something... the aura, the $3 minimum.

The Whisky A Go Go (Go Go is high French slang for "galore") is Washington's most authentic discotheque. Above the Rive Gauche at the corner of M St. and Wisconsin Avenue, it abides admirably by the Georgetown tradition of atmosphere: red and black. It appears to be a lushly-decorated cocktail lounge except for three innovations: a dance floor, a small projection screen and a caged-in blond known as a "disquaire." She changes the records.

The Monkey Business is the other real-live discotheque in Georgetown. It varies the traditional Georgetown red and black with orange and dark brown wood, admittedly more appropriate for a monkey motif.

The Monkey Business is a more comfortable, more restaurant-type cocktail lounge. The menu boasts of such dishes as lobster tails, lobster Newburg, Chateaubriand, and New York cut sirloin. It lacks the little films, and keeps its disc jockey girl behind closed doors. But the latter is all to change when it adds a section to the bar and gives Miss Stipe her own location out in the open.

"I love people too much to be shut off from them," she said, then added, "Besides, you have to be able to gauge your patrons' reactions to the music you're playing, or you're lost."

Bassin's Top of the Walk at 14th and G Sts. converted recently, and quite successfully, into a disco. Their disc jockey girl has a stage all to herself from which she dances to the records and flicks the switch which turns on short, funny, sometimes bawdy films which, according to manager-owner Harry Zeitelman, "the customers love."

Although Bassin's clientele is also within the 25-35 age bracket, it is much more monetarily accessible to students, with a beer at 70 cents, cocktails at 90 cents. The 1789 turned slightly disco when it opened the Wicket's Club, a room previously saved for reserved dinner parties. Their music is on tape, and they have no movies. The main item of interest in the room is a large spotlighted portrait of Queen Victoria. The cocktail tables and chairs are wicker. The patrons are predominately from Georgetown University and drink prices range from 90 cents to $1.10.

The off-shoot of the discotheques, but one which vehemently denies that it is disco, is The Crazy Horse at 3259 M St. The Crazy Horse replaces records with a rock-and-roll combo; then, reactions to the music you're playing, or you're lost."

• THE LIST OF students who have been selected for membership in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges will be released in next week's HATCHET.

during the band's intermission, shows color films of surfing. The Crazy Horse opened with a bang New Year's Eve and has been doing a booming business. Perhaps this is partly due to the no cover, no minimum policy. Sandwiches predominate on the menu and drinks are around $1.

The Showboat Lounge, the home of Charlie Byrd, jazz guitarist, has run the gamut looking for successful Sunday night entertainment. From folk music sessions, to jazz jam sessions, to guitar festivals, to a discotheque.

Instead of a caged-in blonde disquaire, the Showboat invites celebrities to act as hosts and record-spinners. On opening night, Don Hearn, entertainment editor of the News, spun his favorite discs and joked with personal friends and other entertainment personalities among the customers.

With beer at 50 cents, and a much-reduced cover of $1 per party, the Showboat exudes a relaxed, casual atmosphere on Sunday nights.

Faulty Water Pipe Soaks New Dorm

• FAULTY INSTALLATION of a hot water pipe joint on the eighth floor of the New Women's Residence Halls caused the joint to break at 3 am last Friday, resulting in the deluge of Room 802 and seepage down to the first floor lounge.

According to Martin Roudabush, plant engineer, such occurrences are fairly common in new construction because of the "human element" in building, and are covered by a one-year warranty provided by the contractor, in this case the W. H. Gilliam plumbing firm.

All pipes had been tested at one and a half times normal pressure before the dorm opened this fall. Further testing of the thousands of joints at the present time would involve closing the building for a number of days and is "impractical and really unnecessary," continued Roudabush.

Since the break occurred in the middle of the night, there was some delay in summoning an engineer to shut off the pump. "Otherwise the damage would have been minimal," Roudabush explained.

Margie Wolf, one of the six girls in Room 802, reported, "We were awakened by the sound of gallons of water pouring into our room. My roommate screamed 'Fire!' and we ran through the dense steam collecting in the room and hall to the resident assistant. It was like a nightmare, and the floor still smells like a morgue."

The contractor, who will be responsible for replacement of all damaged belongings and construction, met yesterday with University officials to assess the damage.

Greek Weekend Features Co-Sing, Crowning, Prom

• GREEK WEEKEND, featuring the first joint fraternity-sorority sing and the IFC Prom, will be held March 12 and 13 under the cosponsorship of the IFC and Pan Hel.

Highlighting the weekend will be the crowning of a Greek king and queen at the Sing. Elections for the king and queen will take place in the Student Union, March 8-11, and the ten-cent charge per vote will be donated to D. C. Junior Village.

Male and female candidates will be nominated by the fraternities and sororities respectively. The sororities will then vote for the king and the fraternities for the queen.

In conjunction with the crowning of the king and queen, the Sing will feature the top six fraternities and sororities in a singing competition. At a preliminary judging on Sunday, March 7, at 7 pm, each sorority and fraternity will present one song.

The six finalists will then sing two selections on Friday, March 11, at the Greek Sing where the final winners will be chosen by faculty members. Last year's winners were Delta Tau Delta and Delta Gamma.

Admission to the Sing will be one can of food which will go to charity.

On Saturday, March 13, the IFC will hold its annual prom at the Presidential Arms and thus bring to a close the Greek Weekend.

Tau Beta Pi Inducts 9

• TAU BETA PI, the national engineering honorary comparable to Phi Beta Kappa, initiated six undergraduates and three alumni in December.

The undergraduates named are junior Scott Lebeau and seniors Horace Hicks, Khalilollah Khozeimeh, Douglas MacDonald, Lawrence Nivert and Farid Shahid-noorai, while alumni are Warren Keene, Robert Moore and Paul Oscar.

Lebeau, holder of awards for the highest average in his freshman engineering class and in Physics 14, 15 and 16, has a QPI of 3.77. He is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, freshmen men's honorary; Sigma Tau, engineering honorary; and Tau Kappa Epsilon social fraternity.

Working as a hydraulic engineer for the D.C. government, Hicks maintains a 3.06 QPI. Since he attends classes on a part-time basis, he will not graduate for another year.

Khozeimeh, a native of Iran, has a 3.1 QPI in civil engineering. He is corresponding secretary of the International Students' Society.

MacDonald majors in electrical engineering and has a 3.02 average. He is the historian of Sigma Tau.

Planning to go on with graduate study in physics at the University, Nivert is an engineering student with a physics option. He plans eventually to do research and development work for NASA. With a QPI of 3.08, he represents Sigma Tau on the Engineering Council.

Shahid-noorai is majoring in civil engineering and has a 3.4 QPI. Coming from Iran, he is a member of Sigma Tau and Theta Tau, professional engineering fraternity.

Keene graduated from the engineering school in 1957 with an option in business administration, having done prior work at Carnegie Institute of Technology. Since then he has partially completed work toward a master's degree in nuclear engineering at Catholic University and plans to continue working for his doctorate. He is a lieutenant commander in the Navy.

A 1959 graduate currently on the faculty of the School of Engineering, Moore is vice-president of Proteus, Inc., a consulting firm. As an undergraduate he was active in the engineering council, Mecheleclv magazine, Theta Tau, Sigma Tau and Sigma Pi Sigma, national physics fraternity.

Oscar, class of 1962, is working on post-graduate courses at the University of Maryland, presently employed by Ben Dyer and Associates, he formerly worked in the Coast Guard.

Elbert Maloney, a graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, was also initiated on behalf of the Tau Beta Pi chapter at Tech.

Election Rules Extend Campaign

• A PETITION to the Student Council, signed by 102 students, helped extend the campaign period for Student Council offices by three days.

Sponsored by the Students for Better Government, a new campus political organization, the petition was discussed by the Council at meetings Wednesday and Sunday. A clause in the Articles of Student Government stipulates that, "by petition of 50 students, a question may be brought to a vote in the Student Council."

The petition called for a longer campaign period, asking that candidates be allowed to begin campaigning as soon as their petitions were accepted, even if general petitioning was still open.

Ardavazt Honanyan, a member of SBG, presented the petition to the Council. "A longer campaign period would give the students, especially the commuters, a better chance to acquaint themselves with the candidates and issues," said Honanyan.

In the past, campaigning has been allowed for only four days—the two days prior to elections, and the two election days themselves.

The election rules, submitted by Advocate Steve Royer as chairman of the Elections Committee, had already provided for an additional two days for campaigning, stating that the campaign period would extend from 5 pm Friday, Feb. 5 (the time that petitioning closes), through 8 pm Thursday, Feb. 11, the second day of elections.

At Sunday's meeting, Secretary Linda Frost made a motion to permit candidates to begin campaigning as soon as their petitions were approved. The motion died for lack of a second.

Sandy Wishner, representative from the School of Education, made a compromise motion, providing that the campaign period would begin at 9 am on Friday, Feb. 5, instead of 5 pm. In a roll-call vote, the motion passed, 10-2.

The election rules, as submitted by the Elections Committee and amended by the Council, are as follows:

PERSONNEL

The administration of this election is under the jurisdiction of the Elections Committee of the Student Council under the chairmanship of the Advocate of the Student Council, Steve Royer. Candidates having any questions about these rules may call him at the following numbers: 625-7741 or 937-8410 (evenings); Student Activities Office (afternoons). Other members of the Election Committee are:

Nick Bazan, Linda Frost, Jim Rankin and Ken West.

INTENT

These rules are intended to secure a fair election which is to the advantage of all candidates. All candidates and students should, however, be forewarned that any violation of these rules or any attempt to unfairly influence the outcome of the elections will be dealt with to the fullest extent of the powers of the Elections Committee and the Student Council. Students witnessing such violations are encouraged to report said incident to a member of the Elections Committee or to the Advocate. The Elections Committee will meet on the call of the Advocate and will conduct a hearing on the violation allegation with all parties having equal opportunity to appear and defend their position. Students will be assumed innocent until proven guilty. Any candidate or student found guilty of a violation is hereby advised that he may request a hearing from the Student Council and the Committee on Student Life on the finding of the Elections Committee.

PRE-CAMPAIGN PROCEDURE

1.) Petitioning for student office will be held daily from 9 am-5 pm from Thursday, Jan. 28 through Friday, Feb. 5 at 5 pm. Any student who wishes to run in the election must file a petition form, the validity of which (QPI and number of semester hours at the University) can be verified through submission of transcript and grade notice or by investigation of the Elections Committee.

2.) Persons will not be permitted to petition for more than one office. If a candidate wishes to change the office for which he has petitioned, he must do so before his campaign has begun.

3.) Upon petitioning to run, a prospective candidate must pay a registration fee of $5 which is refundable at the end of the election if all the election rules have been followed. A candidate wishing to withdraw from the election or change the position petitioned for will forfeit the $5 unless he appears before the Elections Committee to show just cause why he should be allowed to withdraw or change the position petitioned for.

4.) Each candidate upon petitioning must name another student with a minimum QPI of 2.0 who is designated as his campaign agent, whose task it shall be to advise the candidate to insure obedience to the rules.

5.) Any candidate convicted of a violation of the rules may be fined all or part of the $5 by the Elections Committee.

6.) All monies resulting from improper withdrawals or fines shall be donated to a charity to be named by the Student Council.

7.) All candidates are required to, or have their designated agent, attend a CANDIDATES MEETING on Saturday, Feb. 6 at 11 am in the old Student Council Conference Room in the Union Annex at which time these rules will be explained.

8.) If there is any uncontested office after Friday, Feb. 5 at 5 pm, then petitioning for that uncontested office will remain open until 12 noon on Monday, Feb. 8.

9.) Any person who has petitioned to become a candidate for any office before 5 pm on Friday, Feb. 5 shall not be allowed to later withdraw his petition and submit an additional petition to become a candidate for another office at any time after Friday, Feb. 5 at 5 pm.

CAMPAIGN PROCEDURE

1.) The campaign period will be from Friday, Feb. 5 at 9 am through 9 pm Thursday, Feb. 11. Candidates who wish to commence their campaigns Friday, Feb. 5 at 9 am must secure a statement from the Registrar's Office setting forth their QPI and total number of hours completed at George Washington University and submit such statement with their petitions. If this cannot be done, the candidate may not commence the campaign until the Elections Committee can confirm the validity of the petition.

2.) It shall be considered a serious violation of the rules for any candidate or student to in any way defame or harm University property of others, or to commit any disturbance of the peace, including disturbances of classroom decorum.

3.) The polls will be opened from 8 am to 5 pm on Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 10-11. Students are requested to vote by presenting themselves together with their ID cards during this period. Students should be reminded that each student is entitled to one vote and any double voting will be severely dealt with. Balloting will be held in Woodhall A.

4.) Each candidate must submit to the Elections Committee, in the Student Activities Office by 8 pm on Thursday, Feb. 11 an itemized statement co-signed by his agent of all campaign expenditures, which shall not exceed $25. Candidates are reminded that all gifts or donations of materials must be valued at their retail value. The statement shall include the following: "I certify that the information given above is true to the best of my knowledge." The budget shall be accompanied by specific documents supporting each transaction whenever feasible (printing, etc.). Any gift, donations, etc., will be assigned their retail value for the purpose of listing expenses. PUBLICITY AND CAMPAIGNING REGULATIONS

1.) The carrying of placards, "soap-boxing," and other similar but reasonable means of group participation will be permitted on G St. between 21st and 22nd on the following days and times (number of participants to be limited to ten persons including the candidate): Monday, Feb. 8, 12:12-20 pm; Tuesday, Feb. 9, 12:30-1:30 pm; Wednesday, Feb. 10, 12:30-1 pm; Thursday, Feb. 11, 12:30-1:30 pm. This will not however, be interpreted to include the use of motor vehicles, "cheerleaders," and other boisterous and distracting exhibitions.

2.) Monday, Feb. 8, in the evening is reserved for candidates to visit dormitories, fraternities and sororities. This is not to preclude candidates from visits at such other times as they see fit.

3.) The Elections Committee is empowered to schedule during the campaign period candidate forums where candidates for the various offices meet and confront each other in public discussion.

4.) On Tuesday, Feb. 9, Woodhall House will be opened all day on the first floor as a candidates' center and all candidates are encouraged to use this center as often as possible as students are urged to drop by this center. Candidates may have campaign brochures or other similar literature on platform, but no posters will be allowed in the candidates' center.

5.) On Tuesday, Feb. 9, all classrooms not in use will be at the disposal of candidates and they may apply to use a classroom for one half-hour period. Reserve rooms at the Business Office, Ext. 311, on Tuesday morning. Candidates for the same office or for different offices may appear together with a half-hour being granted for each candidate appearing. Uncontested candidates will not be granted this privilege. Posters may be put up and must be removed at the end of the individual candidate's forum. All candidates are encouraged to use classrooms to hold discussions, make speeches and hold debates.

6.) No more than four posters for a given candidate can be placed on the bulletin boards of any one building excepting those residence halls established by the University and not more than one poster per candidate per bulletin board. Posters may be placed only on bulletin boards and tree stands between 20th and 22nd on G St. No more than one poster per candidate may be placed on any one tree stand. Removal of posters in violation of the above rules will be made by the Elections Committee.

7.) Campaign materials may not be distributed in classrooms nor shall candidates or student supporters disrupt classrooms by carrying posters or other disruptive actions.

8.) All posters shall comply with University regulations, i.e., shall not exceed 11-in. x 14-in. and must be approved by the Student Activities Office or the Elections Committee before being posted. No poster will be approved until Monday, Feb. 8 at 8 am.

9.) No campaign literature shall be allowed in front of Woodhall House (defined to mean from the corner of 21st and G to Building C). Campaign literature will be allowed on the first floor of the Student Union (remember, posters may be placed on open bulletin boards and tree stands only).

10.) Candidates will not be permitted to circulate or distribute copies of the HATCHET or any part thereof as a means of campaigning.

11.) Candidates are reminded that station WRGW will be available for campaigning as long as all those desiring its use and running for the same office are granted equal time.

12.) The Elections Committee shall have the power to declare a person's candidacy invalid for severe violation of the rules. Candidates maintain the right to appeal such decisions to the Student Council and the Student Life Committee.

POST CAMPAIGN PROCEDURE

1.) The Advocate, President of the Student Council and Dean of Men will assemble at the polls at 5 pm on Thursday evening to tabulate and certify the results of the election. Any student or candidate wishing to enter a complaint of a violation of these rules must make such desire known to the Advocate of the Student Council by 8 pm Thursday evening, Feb. 11.

2.) The results of the election will be announced during intermission at the Inaugural Concert, Feb. 12.

Coalitions...

To the Editors:

• POLITICS, PRESSURE, PERSUASION, and just plain old wheeling-dealing have once more embraced the campus as Student Council elections draw near. Ardayazt Honanyan and the Associated Students for Better Government have already joined the fray by announcing their intent to offer an opposing slate to what he calls the "big-fraternity coalition."

Honanyan's conjecture was more a prophecy than propaganda. Indeed, a coalition has been formed again this year by SAE, AEPI, Sigma Chi, and DTD. According to AEPI Murry Cohen, the coalition has slated someone "for every position except Secretary, and Representatives of the Schools of Education and Engineering." However, Bob Mullen of coalition-member Sigma Chi plans to make a bid in the School of Engineering.

Student Council President Victor Clark, who is a member of SAE, has played a strong role in the intra-coalition negotiations. Most motions were tabled at last Thursday's Council meeting, and President Clark adjourned the meeting for lack of quorum by 9 pm in time for a scheduled "summit meeting" at the Sigma Chi House. Vic Clark, Skip Gnehm of Sigma Chi (the coalition's slated candidate for president), and Murry Cohen were among those in attendance.

Cohen, who had considered the post of advocate prior to negotiations, has since decided not to run "in order to devote more time to studies." Another key factor in the negotiations was probably SAE's Bob Wallace who decided not to run for president, though it is anticipated that he will appear somewhere else on the slate.

Valentines...

• CONTEMPORARY all occasion cards, with an emphasis on Valentines, will be sold beginning tomorrow by Mortar Board. The assortment of 100 different 24 cent cards will be on display this week from 11:30-1 pm in the Student Union lobby, and 4:30-6 pm in the New Women's Residence Hall. Next week they will be on sale during lunch hours in the dorm, and dinner hours in the Union.

According to Cohen, AEPI's share of the spoils are to be the Upper Columbian College representative and two other yet undisclosed positions. Delts have Joe Solopek slated for one of the coalition positions. This coalition, which last year formed to carve up the Student Council, had another planning session at the Sigma Chi House following the Student Council meeting Sunday.

Altogether, the coalition has a base of approximately 400 votes. Last year this coalition was able to win 11 out of 17 seats on the Council. However, an interesting diagnosis, and perhaps prognosis for this year, is derived from a survey of last year's election results. In all the hotly contested races their candidates won over a divided field whose total vote exceeded the vote accumulated by the coalition candidate. But in the close advocate race which posed the only two-candidate confrontation among the "hot" races, the coalition candidate lost.

The turkey has thus been carved up, and the only question that remains is whether it can be dressed—down.

Hootenanny...

• THE FOLK MUSIC SOCIETY will have its second sing at Woodhull C, 8 pm, Saturday. It is the purpose of these sings to allow all who are interested to perform or sing with the group.

On January 8 two dozen students attended a pre-examination relaxation session, which included some expert banjo harmony by Dave and Paul and a Recitation by Freya, according to Society President Joshua Gedrich. Several guitarists performed in various traditions to the enjoyment of all, said Gedrich.

'63 Homecoming Report Submitted

by Nancy Coe

• THE LONG-AWAITED report on the financial statement of the 1963 Homecoming chairman has finally been presented to the Student Council by an investigating committee under the chairmanship of Jim Rankin.

Last spring Student Council President Vic Clark refused to accept the report of Homecoming Chairman Ken Rietz with special regard to his financial statement (see HATCHET, April 14, 1964.)

The Student Council has not as yet formally accepted the report of the investigating committee; it has merely been "received."

According to the report, Rietz listed the total income from Homecoming, 1963 as $4,697.30 and the University records list the total as $4,602.08. However, the total estimated by the investigating committee is $5,275.40.

Rietz stated that his total was derived from $3,400 from Campus Combo and $1,297.30 in ticket sales, entrance fees for Homecoming Queen and entrance fees from Homecoming Float Contest.

The investigating committee arrived at its figure by estimating $3,719.60 for 1,094 Campus Combo plus table reservations for 104 tables at $2 each—$208, 30 Queen entries at $15 each—$450, 25 Float entries at $15 each—$375, and ticket sales—about $522.80.

The report states, "It is impossible to determine the amount of income from sales, because the ticket book was lost." The report then outlined the process by which the committee arrived at the figure $522.80.

According to Rietz, his total expenses were $5,559.62, a figure which includes the total of the vouchers, and an attached sheet. According to University records, total expenses at the end of fiscal year 1964 were $5,415.08.

However, there is another discrepancy between the records of Rietz and those of Student Council Treasurer Jerry Chizever, who listed the expenses at $3,762.36.

The report of the investigating committee states, "This last discrepancy is probably due to unauthorized persons signing payment vouchers, etc. When this occurs, the treasurer has no record of the expense."

As of this writing, the report has been tabled for further discussion when Rietz's present status with the University has been determined. A full copy of this report may be obtained at the Student Activities Office in the Student Union Annex.

Colonials Whip Navy After Losing Squeaker To Hoyas

• AFTER BEING NUDGED by a determined Georgetown team two weeks ago, 81-73, the Colonial basketball squad travelled to Annapolis during the "reading days" prior to final exams and tripped Navy, 78-71. The midshipmen couldn't crack the Colonials' zone defense until midway in the second half.

At the end of the first 17 minutes of the Hoya game, the Buff trailed by 18 points. Desperate, Coach Bill Reinhart unloaded the Colonial bench. After "Duke" Farrell sank a 25-foot shot, the subs were on the way. Joe Pignatello made two buckets and Dick Ballard added another. At the half the Buff were down by only a 44-34 margin, thanks largely to Reinhart's astute substitutions.

A ten-point deficit was not too much for the Colonials to overcome. With the Hoyas making several miscues, the Buff grabbed a one-point lead twice in the middle of the final half. However, the Hoyas' number six man, "Jake" Gibbons, came off the bench and hit on two jump shots, thus putting the Colonials on the bad side of the score for good.

Then, All-America candidate Jim Barry found his shooting eye as did Owen Gillen. In the final minutes of the contest the Colonials became foul-happy and the Hoyas' lead stretched to ten points. Joe Lalli and Ed Rainey may have played the best defensive games of their career. Rainey held 6'11" Frank Hollander to two points in the second half. Little Jimmy Brown's total reward for his fancy play all night was his three baskets in 14 attempts. Lalli guarded him.

The Buff's encounter with Navy was remarkably similar to the game played last February when the Colonials bounced the Middles, 77-58, at Fort Myer. Unable to crack the zone defense, Navy attempted to shoot from the outside but hit on less than 30 per cent.

Trailing 39-27 at intermission there seemed to be a rout of the Middles in the making. The Buff led by 64-40 with ten minutes remaining in the game. With Navy committing fouls at mid-court, the Buff suddenly lost their shooting touch.

They missed ten of their last 19 foul shots and went seven minutes without a basket. When Bill Radcliffe and Dick Rolfe began finding the range, the Middles quickly closed the gap to four points, 73-69.

With 1:05 remaining, Lalli converted two free throws in a one-and-one situation. Soon after, he added two more conversions from the charity stripe, and the Colonials were out of Navy's range.

Bill Murtha led the Buff's first half shooters with 13 points. He finished with 17 points and ten rebounds. Phil Aruscavage was the Colonials' most accurate shooter, hitting on seven out of eight field goal attempts. Rick Duques found his recently errant shooting eye and dumped in 15 points, his season high.

Mark Clark Sparks Colonials

by Richard Erickson

• GRADUATING senior Mark Clark, starting guard on the current Colonial basketball team, is returning to his old form and helping lead the Buff and Blue to a great comeback. After losing their first six games, the Colonials still have a chance at their first winning season in several years.

The 1964 All-Tournament member ranked third in the conference and twenty-second in the nation last year in free throw shooting, hitting 84.1 per cent of his shots. This year he has bettered that mark with 85.2 per cent and has a good chance of taking conference honors.

So far this season, Mark has been making three out of eight of his floor shots and has averaged 11.3 points per game, third for the Colonials behind Kenny Legins and Phil Aruscavage. He was high scorer this year in the crucial games against Cincinnati, The Citadel, and St. John's.

Mark specializes in jump shots from 25 feet or more. When he is hitting well the defense has to come out to guard him. This opens up other players for inside shots. According to one freshman basketball player, he has the most potential of any Colonial, meaning he has the best chance of any Colonial to make the Pros.

According to Mark's wife, the team felt it should have defeated Cincinnati, as well as win several other crucial games. Mark's performance in the Cincinnati game was little short of outstanding. Coming alive in the second half, he sparked the late Colonial drive that almost upset the Bearcats. He finished with 23 points, high for both squads.

Mrs. Clark said that Mark felt the team could probably defeat Evansville if they played again, especially if they played a ball-control game against the fast-breaking Aces.

After the Evansville tourney he felt that the Colonials should win three out of their next four games. They did, only losing to highly ranked St. John's in overtime. The St. John's game was one of Mark's finest efforts. Coming off the bench late in the first half, he scored 24 points in less than 30 minutes. Coach Reinhart's strategy of not starting him seemed to revive Mark, as he took over the Colonial's offense after Kenny Legins fouled out.

After Christmas Mark felt the team would start winning, because they were really beginning to work like a team. He thinks the Buff will beat Georgetown next week at Ft. Myer, and has high hopes for the Southern Conference tournament (where the Colonials finished second last year). If the team defeated West Virginia last night, they will probably enter the tournament third-seeded.

The 21-year-old, 6'3" senior plays shortstop on the Colonial baseball team and likes all sports, especially golf. He is a prime candidate in baseball for All-Conference honors.

He is a past president of Phi Sigma Kappa and also is a member of Gate and Key. Last year he ran for Student Council president, but lost.

Mark is majoring in business administration and plans to go to Law School next year.

Buff Face 'Cats And Gobblers On Road This Week

• TRAVELING SOUTH, the Colonials face the Southern Conference leaders, Davidson, on Friday. The game will be played in Charlotte at the Coliseum which will host the conference tournament, Feb. 25-27.

With four starters and eight lettermen returning from last year's tenth-ranked club, Davidson Coach "Lefty" Driesell has high hopes that his team will win a first conference basketball championship for the school.

The team's ace for the last two years has been Fred Hetzel, a Mt. Vernon product. At 6'9", Hetzel has picked off an average of 13.4 rebounds per game in his varsity career. The 240-pounder is scoring an average of 27 points this season in leading his Wildcats to a 16-1 won-lost record.

The team's only loss of the season was to third ranked St. Joseph's. Hetzel has twice been named the "Player of the Week" in the Conference, and is a likely consensus pick for All-America honors.

The leading guard and playmaker is senior guard Bobby Teague. Joining him in the backcourt will be a 6'3" senior, Charlie Macron, who has been a definite asset to the 'Cats offensive game. At the forward posts are Don Davidson, who made the All-Conference second team last year, and hot-shooting Dick Snyder.

Davidson is averaging 13.3 points this year and shoots well from outside. Snyder is Hetzel's rebounding complement. He has also ranked among the ten highest scorers in the conference all season.

As they did last year, the Wildcats are shooting at a clip of 89 points a game while limiting their opponents to 70 markers. The squad over the past two seasons has ranked in the top ten of the nation in field-goal percentage (about 55).

VPI is generally regarded as a darkhorse team in the conference race. After losing five of their first six games, the Gobblers have improved enough to win six of their last nine games.

John Wetzel, a 6'4" junior, currently leads the Gobblers in scoring with a 15-point average. John Whitesell, 6'7", has inherited the center position, but Colonial rooters can expect to see 6'11" sophomore Bob King play. The Gobblers lost three starters from last year, including Paul Long, their all-conference guard, who transferred to Wake Forest. These players have been replaced by budding sophs and juniors, and VPI's hopes of a second place finish prior to the tournament, largely rests on these youngsters' shoulders. The Gobblers record at present is 8-7. Last weekend VPI upset West Virginia, 82-74.
